All for an ice-cream by Karen Jackson

"Mum, can I have an ice-cream?"

"Go ask your dad."

"Dad, can I have an ice-cream?"

"Go ask your mum."

"But I've just asked her and she told me to ask you."

"Well tell her that I've told you to ask her."

“Mum, dad's just told me to tell you that you've got to tell me if I can have an ice-cream."

"Oh well I suppose you can but go ask your dad for 10 pence."

"Right."

"Dad, can I have 10 pence for an ice-cream?"

"I haven't got l0 pence."

"Oh come on dad you haven't looked yet and oh hurry the van'll go soon."

"Let's have a look then, ah, there you are."

"Thanks dad, Ohh!"

"What's the matter now?"

"The van's gone”
