

FirstNews

First News is the children's newspaper that we have in our classroom. It is packed with topical and current stories as well as facts, fiction, events, funny stories, activities and puzzles. There is something for everyone!

During the Coronavirus pandemic, First News are offering children the opportunity to read First News at home – for free!

I know how much you have enjoyed dipping into First News over the last few weeks at school – especially when we were writing our own news reports. Have a look through and read some of the articles that interest you.

As you read articles, can you find any alliteration, puns or rhymes in the headlines? Can you identify the 5Ws? (what where when why who). Can you find examples of direct and indirect speech? What about Lead, Body and Tail paragraphs? What other features can you spot?

I hope you all learn something interesting about what's going on in the world around you.
