

The Curious Cases of CARL LINNAEUS

NAMING BUSINESS

Carl Linnaeus believed that every species should have its own name. That way, we can tell apart similar looking animals.

In one colour, write down all the things that are similar between the two birds, and in a different colour, write down all of the differences

South American Rhea
Rhea americana

Common Ostrich
Struthio camelus

